

ALEXANDRIA.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 5.

Considerable efforts are made to impress the public with an idea that something very important has been gained by the purchase of Russian America; and flattering accounts of the value of the new addition are given from various quarters. That which, up to the time Mr. Seward was either persuaded to buy, or Russia was persuaded to sell, was universally considered a sterile, unproductive territory, almost useless for any purposes which could contribute to the wealth or grandeur of a nation, has suddenly assumed the proportions of a most valuable acquisition of property, to be turned to account in the matter of commerce and trade, fruitful in soil, delightful in climate, rich in minerals, studded with fisheries on the coast, filled with the most valuable timber, accessible by rivers, abounding in splendid furs, and with a population easily convertible, from train-oil cating Esquimaux, without an idea about any kind of government in the world, into free, enlightened, independent voting citizens of the United States, not content with anything short of the patie de foi gras from Strasboug or truffles from Paris! We profess incredulity as to all except the furs! We give up that. Doubtless the fur trade will be increased! We have not read Mr. Sumner's speech, as yet, on "Russian America"-we reserve that for a "winter's evening," when we can sit down before the fire, and leisurely imbibe its classical quotations, its scraps from the books which delighted us in our youth-"olim meminisse juvabit," &c. But we repeat, that without the light of the knowledge of that "guide, philosopher"-alas, we cannot conscientiously add, even in a quotation, "friend"we must be contented-"unprogressive" as we are-according to the new lights of this "progressive" generation-"set a beggar on horsetack, and he will progress to the devil"-we must be contented, we say, to remain incredulous as to the immense value of the "acquisition," and more than incredulous as to any ultimate benefits the country is to receive, in any of the particulars which go to assist in strengthening a cation-by this expansion towards the North Pole!

It will be seen, that, according to the reports from Washington, the "Impeachment" project has terminated for the present; and that the "demonstration" against the President is to be limited to "a vote of censure." There is an old adage which says that "some people's censure is other people's praise." We do not suppose that the President will "wilt" much, when he is formally censured by those who have been "censuring" him, ever since he declared himself to be opposed to most of their high handed proceedings. But even this "censure" of the Executive by the Legislative branch of the government, under the circumstances and for the purposes intended, is very unnecessary and unjust; only calculated to increase strife and make mischief. Mr. Johnson will soon "trouble them no more." They had better let him alone.

If the Southern people were "let alone" by politicians, and party managers, and cormorants for spoils, they would, even under the disadvantageous circumstances in which they are placed, soon recuperate, and start on a new career of prosperity. Their interests and their true policy combine to make them prefer, for themselves, "the fair, delightful plans of peace"-instead of turmoil and strife. But, it is as natural as it is unavoidable that they should feel indignant at the efforts of the disturbers of their good intentions, and especially at the incendiary proceedings of those who would stir up a "war of races," and combine the colored people in their midst in systematic opposition and hostility to the white residents -not for the good of the colored plople, but for their own selfish purposes and ends.

The National Intelligencer says that there is "a reign of terror" in Mobile, owing to the insolence of a large portion of the colored population, who suppose that they will be protected by the military in their aggressive conduct towards the white people. In referring to Gen. Brown's orders in Virginia, to the officers of the Freedmen's Bureau, directing the agents of that institution to see that the "freedman is instructed in his right to vote, and that he is registered and does vote," repeats what it has said before, "that the President is remiss to have been terribly dwarfed in 1866. Many, in his duty in not keeping the military representatives of the Government within the strict limits of their authority."

So far, the visit of the President of the U. S. to Raleigh, and the reception he has met, along the line of travel, and in that city, is in marked contrast with the scenes and incidents of his tour to the North and West, last sum- In the terrible aggregate of loss, very little nominate the President and Directors in said mer, where disorder, tumult, and bad conduct, account is taken of the financial condition of work. The Board of Public Works, Messrs. characterized, too often, the assemblages of people who came to see, and frequently to annoy and insult him. The accounts of the orderly, respectful, and hearty welcome of the Chief Magistrate, in Richmond, Fredericksburg, Petersburg, Weldon and Raleigh, read like "old times," when the people felt that their dignity was concerned in the demeanor they exhibited when the President was their

The Atlantic Telegraph Company announces that arrangements have been made for the immediate repair of the broken cable-that of 1866. The point of injury is known to be within two miles of the land at Heart's Content, as confirmed by Mr. Willoughby Smith, sent to Valentia for the purpose of verifying the previous tests. It is believed that by the 15th of June the cable will be restored to its former perfect condition. The other cable continues in good condition.

The disputes between Gov. Wells and Gen. Sheridan in Louisiana, have culminated in the removal of the former by the latter. Mr. Durant, a "Southern Loyalist" appointed in Gov. W.'s place, it is reported, will not accept. In the mean time, some think the President will revoke the order of removal. There are two factions of the Louisiana "Republicans"—the Sheridan and the Wells parties. The order of Gen. Sheridan removing the Levee Commissioners has been suspended by order of the President.

The Boards of Health in many of the cities, are active in preparations to prevent the spread of the cholera, if it should again visit this country this summer. They recommend the immediate removal of all nuisances, the free and constant use of lime and disenfectants, and the preservation of general health.

Several of our Virginia exchanges speak favorably of the effort making to procure a meeting of the landholders in the adjacent counties in this place, on the 12th instant, to consult in relation to propositions for the encouragement of immigration in this section of Virginia. We hope that something practical and efficient may be arranged.

The political canvass in Tennessee is very bitter. The Radicals are open in their threats of the proscription and "degradation," of their opponents. The Memphis Avalanche declares 'that not one in forty of the active Brownlow partizans in Memphis pays any taxes on real estate. Very few of them pay any U. S. State or county taxes."

Senor Romero, the Mexican Minister, writes a letter to a friend in New York, stating his reasons why Maximilian should, at least, not be released. He thinks if the late Emperor should get back to Europe, "he will be a constant menace to the peace of Mexico." One report is that the prisoner is to be held "lor a high ransom."

A celebration of the late Radical triumph in Washington is to be held in that city shortly. It is understood that the new city officials in dispensing patronage are to be liberal to the colored people who were active on Monday last. Pay and provant for those who achieved the "rout of the old residents."

Mr. Hiscox, a member of the New York Constitutional Convention, was shot and killed in Albany yesterday, by Gen. Cole, who alleges that Hiscox dishonored him in his family relations whilst he was absent from home during the late war.

The tyranny and oppression in Western Virginia, exercised by the dominant faction there -it does not desirve the name of party-are so great that a "re-action" is said to have commenced. It was full time.

The right of Congress to establish the kind of suffrage agreeable to the present dominant party, in all the States, North and South, is likely soon to become another plank in the Radical platform! So we go!

Mr. Stanbery held that the Board The wedding was in the cathedral, and when has no authority to hear evidence, and that "Mr. D. was recognized, he was loudly no one can be refused registry who offers to cheered."

The English journals, of all shades of opinon and of all politics, applaud the recent release of Mr. Jefferson Davis, as eminently proper, under the circumstances.

We have received the June numbers of the Southern Planter and Farmer, both excellent periodicals, full of interesting reading, and instruction for agriculturalists.

THE FINANCIAL CRISIS. - As the returns of the collectors and receivers of the Internal Revenue come in, they furnish startling and alarming proof of the collapse of the great bubble of Northern prosperity. North, East and West, the gigantic incomes of 1865 seem like bladders, have totally collapsed, while others have shrunk to almost nothing. In glancing over the many lists of incomes published by the Northern papers, we do not recollect an instance in which an individual tax payer, or a company, seem to have been as prosperous in 1866 as in 1865. In some of the Western States we have a falling off of seventy per cent., reported from

NEWS OF THE DAY.

'To show the very age and body of the times.'

Washington dispatches say that the statement of the Secretary of the Treasury, of the condition of the public debt for May, will show a large currency balance in the Treasury, and a considerable reduction of the public debt. This result is said to be on account of the unexpectedly large receipts into the Treasury of a miscellaneous character, and from internal published, yesterday, Gen. Schofield's order about Registration. It seems, according to those who have examined the subject, that the order differs materially from the recent opinion of Attorney General Stanbery. The Richmond Enquirer says:

"It adheres to the scheme of challengers to dispute applications to register, and it requires the Board to decide for admission or rejection after examining the applicant and hearing the take the oath,-thus making the citizen the judge of his own qualifications. Gen. Schofield makes the Board the judge with plenary powers.

Gen. Schofield's order requires the Boards to reject from registry some whom the Attorney General declared entitled to register, and others as to whom the latter withheld his opinion for further examination. Of officers of the law in connection with State and municipal affairs, he rejects, under certain conditions, Judges of hustings courts, the principal muni cipal officers of cities and towns, inspectors, and others; whom Mr. Stanbery allows; and he rejects also Justices of the Peace and Coroners, as to whom Mr. Stanbery hesitates.-A single class which was rejected by Mr. Stanbery against his own argument, appears to be allowed by Gen. Schofield, - the members of constitutional conventions. Gen. Schofield's Order is also much stricter than the Attorney General's, in regard to Conscript service, as being in technical aid of

To the inquiry what next? we cannot answer.
